

“The impact of the Covid-19 pandemic has shown just how important the spiritual dimensions of healthcare are. Extraordinarily the subject is all too rarely addressed. I am delighted that this course—the first of its kind in the UK for health and social care professionals—will begin to address that gap.”

Stuart Bell CBE (former NHS Chief Exec)

- ◆ Practical and accessible training in psychologically informed spiritual care for health and social care professionals of all cultures, faith and beliefs;
- ◆ Taught by educators and leaders within Oxford Health NHS Trust in partnership with Oxford Brookes University over three semesters via a series of study days and supported personal study;
- ◆ Level 7 (60 credits) starts September 2022.

For more information please email:
guy.harrison@oxfordhealth.nhs.uk

‘An excellent and innovative course which should appeal to spiritual care practitioners looking to introduce blended support for patients that takes account of both their beliefs and validated psychological approaches.’ (2021/2 student)

